

L. M. U. CLOSES TWENTY-SIXTH COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES

Dean of U. T. Law Department Addresses Graduating Class This Morning—Judge Marvin Presides at Exercises

EIGHTEEN COLLEGE GRADUATES, THIRTY FROM ACADEMY

The marked success of the twenty-sixth commencement exercises of Lincoln Memorial University which closed today has been attested in every feature of the three-day program. Beginning Sunday with the commencement sermon to the graduates and ending today in the graduating exercises with a stirring address by Dean Malcolm McDermott, of the law department of the University of Tennessee, the year has culminated in a fitting climax.

Eighteen students graduated from the college department, about thirty students have finished the academy department, one student has finished the forestry course, and six have finished the commercial course. Fourteen students in the Opportunity School have completed the courses offered, and will be ready for high school next year.

Judge U. L. Marvin the vice president of the University, presided at the exercises today, and presented the prizes and diplomas. Dean McDermott delivered a powerful address on "The Making of a Man." He sketched the characteristics that make a man, and exploded the fallacies that heredity and environment make the man. He showed how will power, as explained by the great psychologist, Henry James, was the real molding factor in developing a man's power and talent. Will coupled with power brings the achievement.

At the close of Dean McDermott's address, the honorary degree of doctor of laws was voted and conferred upon the Rev. A. A. Myers, who was the founder of Lincoln Memorial. Dr. Hill, the chancellor, pronounced an eloquent eulogy upon Dr. Myers, who now at the age of 86 years is still dreaming and planning the development of schools. Dr. Myers responded in a most gracious and humble manner, and captured the hearts of the people by his recital of how he sought the dark places of the mountain districts and established schools. Dr. Myers has probably done more in the establishment of settlement schools in the mountains than any other one man.

Dr. R. O. Matthews, the new president of the University, was presented to the audience, and he delivered a word of greeting which was well received. At the close of the exercises hundreds of students and friends came forward to greet him. Dr. Matthews leave today for Richmond, Virginia, and in a few days he will be back in Washington to complete his work there. He will be at the University to stay about the middle of June.

The following were graduate James Bart Stroud, M. A.; Jess H. Edits, A. B.; cum laude; Loy Allison, A. B.; Joseph Douglass Campbell, A. B.; Otis S. Cooper, A. B.; Clifton O. Johnson, A. B.; Elmer P. Barr, B. S.; James Victor Combs, B. S.; Miss Harriet Walker Myers, B. Mus.

Appeals to Keep Uncle Sam Alive and Well in World—Annual Commencement Today

"The glory of America was the theme of an eloquent address delivered by Thomas H. Adams of Vincennes, Ind., last night before the literary societies of Lincoln Memorial University. Mr. Adams is editor of the Vincennes Morning Commercial and is a prominent national journalist. He was one of the men on whom Lincoln Memorial University conferred the degree of doctor of laws Monday.

He traced the history of this nation from the glorious circumstances of its formation, down to the present time. "We are a cosmopolitan race," he said, "but so versatile that we have never been conquered and, God willing, never will. In 150 years of our super-civilization we have made progress so great that the books are not big enough or exhaustive enough to relate the transcendental tale."

Mr. Adams dwelt at considerable length upon this country's part in the war, the noble part played by American soldiers and the astounding way in which Uncle Sam met the world war

BOYD BROWNING ARRESTED TODAY

Officers Surround Fern Lake "Bad Man" at Post Office When Latter Lays Down Shotgun

Separated from his shotgun, Boyd Browning, wanted on various charges, was surrounded by officers this morning at the postoffice and arrested. He is now held at the city jail, pending, it is said, investigation by County Judge J. S. Blumhagen on lunacy charges. Browning had laid aside his omnipresent shotgun and was doing some writing. Chief H. E. Ball quietly took possession of the weapon while Constable J. A. Thompson pinned Browning's arms to his side. Leslie Goodman, deputy constable, was also present and assisted in the arrest.

There is an accumulation of three warrants, some say five, against Browning in which he is charged with breach of peace, felonious assault and lunacy. Local officers say they have been waiting until Browning became "tame" before attempting the arrest.

Browning is said to have assaulted a sixteen-year-old Marsee boy at Fern Lake a few weeks ago with his shotgun and to have killed a dog that accompanied the boy. A warrant charging him with breach of peace was taken from the constable when Browning had refused to be arrested by it and the case was consigned by Magistrate Charles G. Smyth to the county who, upon information furnished him by Smyth, issued another warrant for Browning's arrest.

"MIKADO" TONIGHT AT CHAUTAUQUA

Program of Kendree Concert Company Last Night Highly Entertaining Throughout

With a variety program consisting of vocal and instrumental duets and trios and humorous readings, the Kendree Concert company furnished the entertainment for the Lyceum Chautauqua at the Central school auditorium last night. A fairly large attendance was present and all the numbers were well received.

The opening numbers of the repertoire were Scotch songs. Dressed in the characteristic plaids, the entertainers sang some of the familiar Scotch songs. The Highland Fling with real bagpipe accompaniment was offered. Other numbers of the program which consisted mainly of classical duet and trio selection with violin and piano accompaniment were equally well received.

The Tooley Comic Opera company will be here tonight. A concert composed of operatic arias, duets and trios as well as parts of Gilbert and Sullivan's "Mikado," will be presented.

ESTABLISH NEW TOLL LINES NORTH

Will Afford Direct Connection With Louisville and Cincinnati for This Section

Toll lines from Cincinnati and Louisville which will afford direct connection with these cities to residents of this section are being constructed by the Cumberland Telephone company. The work has proceeded as far as Corbin and Guy Glover, local manager, says the lines should be to Pineville within a few weeks.

Though the lines will not come any farther than Pineville, patrons of Middlesboro may get the direct connection through the Pineville operator. Mine operators and other business men of this section who often make long distance communications say that the improvement in the service will greatly expedite the conducting of their business.

The two lines establish more efficient northern cities, an improvement long distance connection with which the company has long needed.

PHYSICIAN MAY PRESCRIBE ANY AMOUNT LIQUOR

Federal Judge Declares Void Part of Volstead Act—Injunction Keeps Officers From Bothering Physician's Practice

ACTION OF SUPREME COURT ON DECISION UNCERTAIN

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, May 9.—Federal Judge Knox today declared void that portion of the Volstead act which limits the amount of liquor which a physician may prescribe and granted an injunction restricting prohibition authorities from interfering with the practice of Dr. Samuel Lamber. It sustained by the higher court this may also deal a blow to the Harrison Anti-Narcotic act. In the ruling today the court said the Volstead amendment was designed to prohibit liquor as a beverage and not to "read the use of liquor." He also said congress without reference to the quantity of liquor actually required for proper treatment of a particular ailment limits the amount arbitrarily for all patients to one pint every ten years.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, May 9.—Government officials were uncertain today whether an appeal would be taken to the supreme court from the New York Federal Courts on the decision declaring void the Volstead law provision limiting physicians' prescriptions for liquor. The supreme court has never passed on this provision of the prohibition law. It has upheld the Volstead law as a whole but that does not prevent courts from holding particular sections as void. The New York decision, however, is regarded as applying only to the physician who brought suit and not to physicians in general.

LOW TEMPERATURE REGISTERS HERE

Thermometer at 36 Here This Morning—Snow and Cold Through North—Hot in South

Undoubtedly the lowest temperature for the middle of May in many years was registered here this morning when the thermometer stood at 36 degrees and hovered around 40 degrees through the major part of the day. A flurry of snow this morning added color to the wintry attack. R. H. Perkins, local weather observer, says that a frost is likely tonight if it clears up, and doesn't get warmer. However, he does not think such cold weather this time of year can be of long duration.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, May 9.—Unseasonable freezing weather accompanied by snow flurries has brought shivers to the Central West but the weather bureau sees relief immediately ahead. Snow is reported as far south as Missouri with flurries in Wisconsin, Iowa, Indiana and other central states resembling a blizzard. ROSE HILL WELL WAITS FOR PUMP

Would Draw Off Salt Water Found Down 255 Feet—Drill Has Passed Four Sands

Drilling at the Rose Hill oil well has been stopped, pending the arrival of a pump which has been ordered to draw off the salt water found at a depth of 255 feet. Four layers of sand have been passed by the drill, according to J. H. Walker, vice president of the oil firm, the thickness of each being thicker than the one preceding. The last layer was eighteen feet thick.

It is not known yet whether or not the supply of brine can be exhausted by the pump; cement may be used to stop the flow if the pump is not sufficient. Advice from experts in other fields may be sought.

Application has been made to the national Department of Geological Survey for a geologist and prospects for procuring this aid are favorable. Congressman Robison is using his influence in this direction. Rose Hill is now a proven oil field, Mr. Walker stated. The four layers of sand already reached each of which is rich with oil have indicated that the section is an oil producing one.

MAY DEVELOP CUMBERLAND BY LOCKS AND DAMS

Robison Has Plan to Make River Navigable All Year Round—Great Aid in Transportation Through This Section

FISCAL COURT OF COUNTIES APPROVE ACTION

Congressman J. M. Robison passed through Middlesboro yesterday on his way to Nashville, Tennessee, to confer with some river engineers in the development of Cumberland River. He is to secure estimates as to the cost of a system of locks and dams on the Cumberland River below Burnside, in Pulaski county, though Pulaski, Wayne, Russell, Clinton, and Cumberland counties. It has been proposed to build at least two more locks and dams on the Cumberland so that it will be made navigable the year round.

In speaking of the contemplated development, Congressman Robison stated that he had been working on the project for two years and that now he had secured the favorable action of the fiscal courts in each of the counties through which the Cumberland flows in acquiring the lands along the river that would necessarily be damaged in the overflow. The only thing that remains to be done is to get the estimate of the proposed improvement included in the budget of the War Department, which handles all the funds for river development.

"The Congressman explained that in these counties mentioned there were practically no rail transportation facilities and that this river transportation planned would mean an untold saving and increased business in every line of endeavor for the people of these counties. The improvement will open up the marvelous agricultural resources of these counties as not other single method.

"It will not be a difficult matter to get the War Department to approve the expenditure for the locks and dams," stated the Congressman. Appropriations of this kind are taken away from political bodies and left entirely with the War Department. If the War Department decides that the proposed improvement is necessary and that it will benefit sufficiently large number of people in proportion to the expenditure it will gladly include the estimate in its budget for the year. This approval of the Department has only necessary for us to get the estimate as prepared by the river engineers already been secured, and it is now work will begin next year.

"Few people in this end of the district realize this great need of these counties in the western part of the district. The river furnishes the only means of transportation, and as it is at present it is navigable only a few months in the year. With these dams and locks, it will be navigable the year round, and will insure an economical and satisfactory method of transportation for tens of thousands of people.

A THOUGHT

The Lord rewardeth me according to my righteousness; according to the cleanness of my hands hath he recompensed me.—II Sam. 22:21.

God be thanked that there are some in the world to whose hearts the barnacles will not cling.—J. C. Holland.

INDUSTRY STILL FORGES AHEAD

The industrial machine continues to forge ahead. Several 1920 production records were broken last month, which indicates pretty plainly the rate at which business is traveling. The 1920 records were established by reason of demands which were neglected during the war; the present high peaks have been reached without this urge, and with comparatively little assistance from foreign trade.

The present progress of building is not tied down to a few particular lines; it is branching out in all directions.
The iron and steel, building, and automotive industries are among the leaders.

There are plenty of jobs for those who want to work. Labor is, as a rule efficient, though there are reports of employer and employee restlessness as the labor shortage becomes more evident. Wages are on the increase. This means more money to spend and more goods changing hands.

People are buying and they appear to be using good judgment in making their purchases. They are not turning a "blind eye" on these prices which have advanced.

Most buyers do not want super-inventories such as proved to be so burdensome a short time ago. Delivery of goods in some instances, is delayed on account of a shortage of raw materials, and bonuses are occasionally being offered to hasten it.

There is another angle, however, which must not be overlooked at this time. For the second time in as many months the tone of our correspondents' letters has been guarded. A general attitude of watchfulness is apparent as business shows a tendency to increase its speed. Also, that if prices advance to a much higher level, even though justified by advances in labor rates and other items entering into the cost of production there may be resistance on the part of the public. However, this attitude of caution constitutes one of the reassuring elements if it is adhered to.

Summarizing, we believe that while business conditions today have all the elements of stability and a continued prosperity, caution is undoubtedly necessary. Some of the elements of the last period of undue expansion are lacking; others are following a striking parallel. Confidence tempered by caution is necessary if production, distribution, and consumption are to be held on a sane level.—Monthly Business Review.

AN EDITORIAL TO MIDDLESBORO

By THOMAS H. ADAMS, of Indiana

Middlesboro, Ky.
May 8, 1923
Editor Daily News: Two business men drifted with me into your newspaper shrine today and said: "We have brought with us a Western editor and we want him to write an editorial right here and now, and we want you to print it."

The tone was banter, but ye editor took it seriously and insisted that the same be written. Always obliging, I say:

An editorial is something not to be haunted with or jested about. An editorial is the index or key to a theme and a theme should carry with it conviction, whatever it is.

Journalism is the great force of the intellect of America. It should show its power in every place, in every purpose. It is the prime of all professions, and notwithstanding the severity of its critics, the profession keeps on growing and growing until right now it is the light of the world. In wrong hands it is the confusion of the time.

A writer in a writers' magazine said the other day that not one per cent of the editorials printed in the 25,000 newspapers of the country, should ever have been written, much less published. He never saw my paper, but I am willing to say that of thousands of editorials printed in it I am not willing to concede that even one per cent should NOT have been printed. I am ready to stand by all.

An editorial ought to be a constructive message of thought, true, helpful, hopeful, ingenious.

Your city, nestling here in the Camberlands, is an active, powerful community of live earnest people. Any one can tell that by looking around.
A writer came here from Canada one time to observe the majesty of the sunrise from Cumberland Pinnacle top. I am not half as much interested in sunrises as I am in the breathing, living potency of a city of houses, of a city of churches and schools, and a real city of the truest civilization that is known throughout the world, as exemplified by fine young American citizens like this very city of Middlesboro.

Here in the Camberlands you are going to win, too, with your militant business men, your giant University, your projected Federal National Park and your diversified industries. You are going the right way. I can see it as an outsider looking in. Keep on the way, good citizens. Keep on the way, and you are bound to glorify yourself by the great work accomplished and the fine work to come.

Sunrises are spectacles of the mystical glories of the Universe, but my heart goes out to the young students all about here who are fighting every day in every way to be better and better citizens. They need a chance—and they will get a chance in the world—they deserve their place in the sun.
Keep up heart every one of you. The future glows with promise! Thank you!

Questions

ONE—If a batter is hit by a pitched ball that goes directly over the plate, what is the ruling?

TWO—What was the ruling made by the major leagues relative to spit ball bunting?

THREE—Can a bat-man be removed at any time regardless of the balls or strikes that may be on him?

FOUR—If, after two strikes have been pitched to an improper batter, the team at bat discovers the mistake, can the proper batsman be substituted?

FIVE—If, with two out, a base runner is hit by a batted ball which retires the side, does the batsman receive credit for a hit?

Answers

ONE—It is the opinion of the umpire, the delivery was up to the specifications of a strike, he would so rule it whether or not it hit the batter.

TWO—The major leagues ruled that the pitchers who used the spit ball in 1920 would be allowed to continue it during their career.

THREE—A batsman can be removed at any time. The man selected to take his place, simply takes the balls and strikes on the batter at the time of removal.

FOUR—The proper batsman can be substituted when the mistake is discovered, and he simply takes the count that was on the improper batter.

FIVE—The batter always receives credit for a hit on such a play, no matter what the status of the game may be.

LETTER FROM LESLIE PRES- COTT TO HER MOTHER, MRS. JOSEPH HAMILTON

At last I have found an apartment.
Mother dear, after days of looking about when I came home so tired each night that I could not talk. (Isn't it funny that your husband wants to read the paper when you want to talk and then when you are so tired you can not move and you just want to lie down on the sofa and think that is the time he selects to go to a picture show or somewhere to dance.)

I just happened on the dearest little place. A wonderful long studio room that we can use for a living room and a dining room. One large bedroom and a sunny room which I shall fit up for a guest room.

A fine modern bathroom and a most up-to-date little kitchen. And think of it, mother, five closets!

I don't know what Jack will say when he finds out that the flat is fitteen hundred dollars a year and I had to take it for three years to get it at that price. That includes heat and there will, of course, be no grass to cut or water tax.

The agent drew my attention to the fact that the owners even washed the windows on the outside and he said that, while of course Jack is only getting five thousand now, he surely will have a raise very soon. He assured me Jack was called one of the corners in Albany business life.

The man also told me confidentially that rents were going up and it would be a big rent rent bargain to take this at the price. He intimated that he would not have made as advantageous a lease with any one else. I paid the first hundred and fifty dollars rent in advance out of the four thousand.

That lovely Chinese rug Aunt Jean gave me is large enough for the studio room with the addition of a couple of small ones. I got them at great bargains. The two only cost me three hundred dollars. When you see them you will think I am a real buyer.

Of course I haven't had to buy any silver at all, but dishes—I am glad I am going to do my own work for if anyone would break any of my new "Crown Derby" I wouldn't be able to eat lunches for a month; they were so expensive. Mother, I think they are prettier even than your Dresden set.

The stove was in the apartment but I spent a thousand dollars before I turned around. And then, Mother, an awful thing happened. I told you all the nice things first but now I have got to confess what a little fool I am.

I have a little bone to pick with you mother dear. Why didn't you teach me how to buy things?

I guess I was like Jack. I thought four thousand dollars would buy everything in the world—and well, I might as well begin at the beginning.
(Don't tell Dad, will you.) Here comes Jack. Must wait until tomorrow. LESLIE.

The amateur gardener scratched his head.

"This is too much for me," he said.

"I plant tomatoes,

Green peas, potatoes,

Lettuce and beans, to meet our needs

I treat 'em kind

As I ought to do,

But all I find

When the season's through,

Is a bean or two and a lot of weeds"

The amateur gardener thought and

On why his gardening came to naught:

Came suddenly into his puzzled brain

Then he gave a wink

And he cried, "I'm sore

That I didn't think

Of that thought before,

A logical plan that is safe and sane,"

So the amateur gardener bought the seeds

Of all the different sorts of weeds,

He planted thistles

And things with bristles

And all plants pests he had heard about;

Then corn and peas.

Potatoes too,

And plants like these

Sprang up and grew

Till they'd choked the weeds and the thistles out!

TODAY'S RECIPES

ORANGE AND STRAWBERRY COUPE

The following recipe is given in quantities sufficient for six servings: Mix one cup of heavy cream, one cup of orange juice, one cup of sugar and one-eighth teaspoon of salt, and freeze like ice cream. Cut one pint of strawberries into halves, reserving a few of the finest for garnish. Add sugar to taste and let stand for one hour or more in a cold place. Separate two oranges into sections free from skin and seeds, and sweeten.

In the bottom of stem dessert-glasses place two sections of oranges and a spoonful of berries, in each. Fill the glass with the frozen cream, leaving just room for a spoonful of strawberries on top.

If a more elaborate garnish is desired, add whipped cream and a strawberry on top.

The combination of orange and strawberry is extremely good.

PERMANENT ENAMEL BAKED ON STEEL

Eight years ago, when Dodge Brothers originated the all-steel motor car body, they took advantage of the absence of wood in the framework to bake an enamel finish on the surface of the steel.

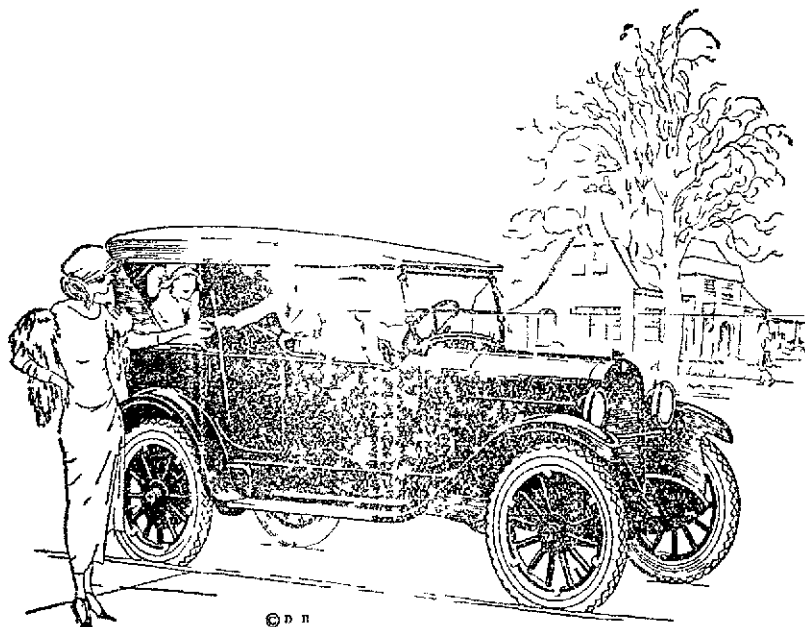

In a vast series of electric ovens, especially designed and built by Dodge Brothers' engineers for this process, three distinct coats of black enamel are successively baked on the steel at an intensely high temperature.

The result is a finish so hardy and durable that it seldom requires more than a good cleaning and polishing to restore the original brightness.

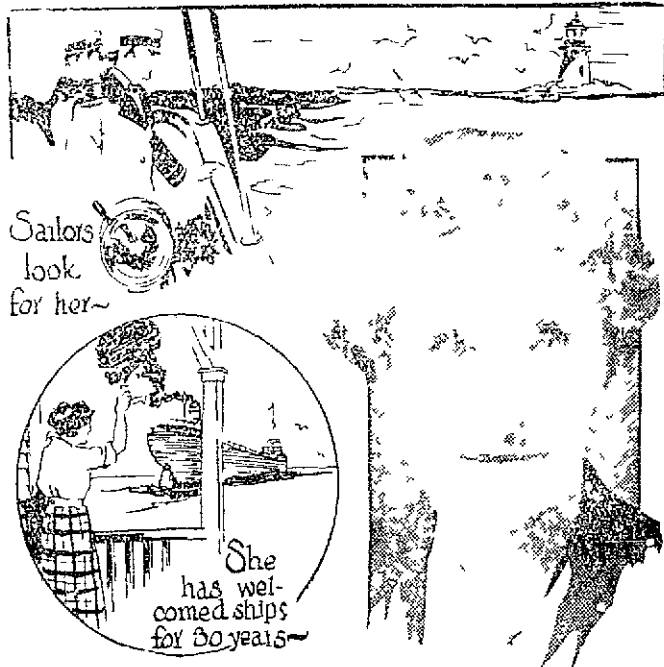

Even in sections of the Southwest where alkali in the soil is especially destructive to body finishes, Dodge Brothers enamel retains its beautiful lustre after years of wear.

WAVING GIRL HAS KEPT HER VIGIL THIRTY YEARS

THIRTY YEARS

SAVANNAH, Ga., May 7.—Who is spending her thirty years with a lantern in the window?

Ask any sailor whose vessel has passed out of or entered Savannah harbor—he'll give you an answer.

Or if there's no sailor available, read this:

Her name is Miss Florence Martin. She's earned her title because for 30 years she's saluted every ship that left or entered the harbor—with a flying lantern.

Miss Martin, who lives at the corner of the Savannah (Ga.) harbor where her father is in the lighthouse service, is probably the most famous woman in Savannah in the whole South.

I've sailed that goes by salutes her. The steamers send out their repeated message of greeting, or good bye, as they pluck the wires of the river and the smaller craft either dips its colors or sounds its whistle as it makes the portway.

Romance Legend

Miss Martin says she does this because she loves the sea and the men who roam it. There has been built up a legend of a lost lover who never returns but Miss Martin and her brother George, who lives with her, do not care for this pretty romance.

The sailors are all my sweethearts, says the girl, in the light of the evening. I am proud, for none is particular to select them all as friends.

I greet the ships and the smaller craft because I find pleasure in it. I began the practice in the fall of 1887 and I have not failed since then to be in hand when a ship sails in or out.

If I am away from home I see to it that the light is someone on duty to take my place.

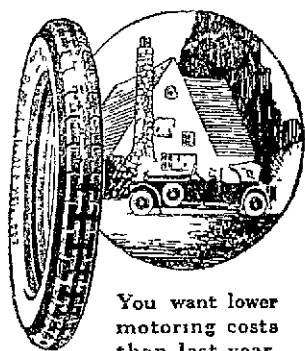

Gets Many Gifts

The waving girl has been the recipient of many gifts from charming friends. She treasures each of them as she does the correspondence that has come to her from all parts of the world from those whom she has never known personally.

It is believed a letter was mailed to her from the far corners of the globe merely addressed The Waving Girl. It would come direct to her because she is so well known.

Am I loathsome? Miss Martin repeated a question put to her. I should say not. Who could be with so many visitors to see her each day and night?

Miss Martin is not merely a fair weather friend. She and her brother have rendered aid to a number of vessels in distress near their home in stormy weather.

The Railroads Must Spend Billions Every Year for Improvements—

The enormous amount of money which has been spent by American railroads for the improvement of track conditions and added equipment, during the past twelve months, is but a drop in the bucket as compared to the amount actually needed by the transportation system.

For many years, because of Governmental regulation of revenues and heavy operating costs, the railroads have been unable to provide adequate transportation facilities. Consequently, more engines, more cars, more tracks, terminal facilities and varied improvements are sorely needed to meet the current and prospective demands. And it is possible for these to be created only through profits earned by the carrier. Unless the railroads make money—a sufficient margin of profit over their operating costs—they cannot make these needed investments.

Remember this fact and be careful about lending your assistance to any radical politician or editor who is supporting or advising half-baked and unsound ideas about ways to improve and regulate American railroads.
